Client Follow-Up Prompt Pack

Follow-up after calls, estimates, proposals, events, presentations, or no response.

Clear context. Precise next step. Controlled commitments.

24 PROMPTS

Ready to customize.

6 FOLLOW-UP SCENARIOS

From the call to closing the loop.

HUMAN REVIEW

Before you send.

A good follow-up reduces uncertainty without creating unnecessary pressure.

It should recall the context, make the next step clear, and help the recipient respond or decide.

- Choose the prompt closest to the real situation.
- Replace every bracketed field with confirmed and approved information.
- Keep one main action per message.
- Add a deadline only when it is real, useful, and authorized.
- Adapt the tone to the relationship, the time elapsed, and the impact of no response.
- Verify facts, attachments, commitments, and recipients before sending.

THE CORE RULE

Do not ask AI to invent interest, consent, availability, urgency, or commitments. Ask it to structure the message around the facts and authority you already have.

This pack is designed for professionals, small businesses, project teams, real estate, hospitality, operations, and client- or stakeholder-facing roles.

Use the right message for the right moment.

The same message does not work after a call, a proposal, an event, or three unanswered follow-ups.

CATEGORY	USEFUL FOCUS
After calls and meetings	Recap, decisions, actions, owners, deadlines, and open questions.
Estimates and proposals	Receipt confirmation, relevant value, clarification, review, and decision.
Presentations and demos	Promised materials, open questions, feedback, decision, and next meeting.
Events and networking	Personal context, reason for reaching out, and a credible next step.
Clients and projects	Approvals, missing documents, updates, and re-engagement.
No response and close-out	Tone progression, real urgency, pause, or professional close-out.
Human review	Facts, authority, privacy, commitments, attachments, and message consequences.

BETTER BASE INSTRUCTION

Act as a client communication editor. Create a brief, professional follow-up using only the facts provided. Recall the context, highlight the next step, and do not create unauthorized urgency or commitments.

Avoid: "Write something that will make them reply immediately."

Use one structure for almost any professional follow-up.

The 24 prompts in this guide are specialized versions of this master instruction.

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Act as a professional client communication editor.

Draft a follow-up for [RECIPIENT / AUDIENCE].

PREVIOUS INTERACTION

[CALL / MEETING / ESTIMATE / PROPOSAL / EVENT / PRESENTATION + DATE]

PURPOSE

[WHAT THE FOLLOW-UP MUST ACHIEVE]

CONFIRMED FACTS

[DECISIONS, MATERIALS, AMOUNTS, DATES, QUESTIONS, OR REAL COMMITMENTS]

REQUESTED NEXT STEP

[WHAT THE RECIPIENT SHOULD DO, DECIDE, CONFIRM, OR PROVIDE]

TO NE

[WARM / NEUTRAL / DIRECT / EXECUTIVE / EMPATHETIC]

BOUNDARIES

Do not invent interest, urgency, consent, availability, deadlines, or commitments. Mark missing information as "To confirm."

FORMAT

Provide:

1. subject line
2. context reminder in 1-2 sentences
3. relevant value, decision, or open point
4. clear next step
5. deadline only if confirmed
6. one-line human review note

The tone should reflect the relationship, time elapsed, and real impact.

Professional does not mean pushy. It means clear, appropriate, and controlled.

tone	use when	standard
Warm	After calls, events, and first contacts	Friendly with a concrete next step
Neutral	Estimates, materials, and updates	Factual and easy to act on
Direct	Deadlines, overdue actions, or delayed responses	Clear without accusation or artificial pressure
Executive	Decisions, approvals, and risks	Concise and outcome-focused
Empathetic	Sensitive situations or frustrated clients	Acknowledges impact without inventing fault

- Do not send a follow-up too soon merely to stay visible.
- Use urgency only when the deadline or impact is real.
- Do not repeat the same message: add context, clarity, or a new option.
- After several unanswered messages, close the loop instead of increasing pressure.

AUTHORITY CHECK

Before sending, ask: Am I authorized to state this fact, propose this deadline, promise this availability, offer this solution, or close this matter?

01 AFTER CALLS & MEETINGS*Call Recap

Use this when: You completed a call and want to confirm understanding, decisions, and next steps.

Provide: notes, participants, decisions, actions, deadlines, open questions

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Using only the notes below, draft a follow-up for [RECIPIENTS].

Include:

- brief thank-you
- essential recap
- confirmed decisions
- actions with owner and date
- open questions
- next checkpoint

Do not invent decisions, owners, or deadlines. Use "To confirm" when information is missing.

NOTES:

[PASTE NOTES]

Expected result: A concise operational recap that creates a clear record.

Human check: Confirm that discussion points are not presented as final decisions.

02 AFTER CALLS & MEETINGSFollow-Up After a Discovery Call

Use this when: You gathered initial needs and want to confirm priorities and the next step.

Provide: objectives, problems, criteria, constraints, promised materials, next meeting

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up after the discovery call with [CLIENT].

Acknowledge the context and summarize:

- main objectives
 - confirmed problems or constraints
 - information still needed
 - materials we will send
 - proposed next step
- Do not add needs or conclusions that were not expressed.

NOTES:

[PASTE NOTES]

Expected result: A message that demonstrates listening and prepares the next phase.

Human check: Verify needs, priorities, promised materials, and actual availability.

03 AFTER CALLS & MEETINGS*Confirm a Decision Made

Use this when: A meeting produced a decision and written confirmation is needed.

Provide: ~~decision, rationale, impact, owner, effective date, exceptions~~
COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up confirming the decision made during the [MEETING / CALL] on [DATE].
Open with the exact decision.
State the relevant facts, operational impact, owner, and effective date.
Clearly separate any exceptions or open points.
Do not expand the decision beyond what was approved.

Expected result: A precise, traceable confirmation focused on execution.

Human check: Verify authority, exact wording, scope, and effective date.

04 AFTER CALLS & MEETINGSSend Promised Materials

Use this when: After a call, you need to send agreed documents, links, or information.

Provide: materials, purpose, recipient, requested action, deadline

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a brief email to [RECIPIENT] after [CALL / MEETING].
Thank them, recall the context in one sentence, and present the attached or linked materials.
For each item, state what it is for.
Close with the requested action: [ACTION].
Do not mention attachments or links that are not actually available.

Expected result: An organized delivery that makes the materials immediately usable.

Human check: Check attachments, links, access permissions, version, and recipients.

05 ESTIMATES & PROPOSALS

After Sending an Estimate

Use this when: You sent an estimate and want to confirm receipt and the next step.

Provide: client, date, subject, relevant value, validity, desired action

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up about estimate [REFERENCE] sent to [CLIENT] on [DATE].
Goal: confirm receipt, invite questions, and make the next step easy.
Mention one relevant element of the estimate.
Offer [CALL / REVIEW / APPROVAL] as the next action.
Do not create urgency, discounts, or price changes.

Expected result: A confident but non-pushy message with a clear next step.

Human check: Verify price, validity, availability, and estimate terms.

06 ESTIMATES & PROPOSALS

Clarify an Estimate

Use this when: The client has questions or seems blocked by scope, cost, or terms.

Provide: question, point to clarify, approved source, options, authority limit

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up clarifying [POINT] in estimate [REFERENCE].
Explain the point in plain language using only approved information.
If options exist, present them with the same level of detail.
State what requires internal approval or confirmation.
Close with one specific question for the client.

Expected result: A clarification that reduces ambiguity without changing the estimate.

Human check: Confirm scope, costs, terms, and authority before sending.

07 ESTIMATES & PROPOSALS

After Sending a Proposal

Use this when: You sent a proposal and want to reopen the conversation in a useful way.

Provide: send date, client objective, main value, requested decision, availability

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up about proposal [TITLE] sent on [DATE]. Briefly recall the client objective and connect one proposal element to that objective. Ask whether clarification is needed and propose [NEXT STEP].
Keep the message under 140 words.
Do not assume interest, approval, or priority.

Expected result: A relevant follow-up that avoids the generic "just checking in."

Human check: Verify that the stated value is actually included in the proposal.

08 ESTIMATES & PROPOSALS

Request a Decision on a Proposal

Use this when: A decision is needed by an actual deadline to protect time or resources.

Provide: decision, options, date, impact of delay, provisional recommendation

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a decision request for [DECISION OWNER] regarding proposal [TITLE].
Open with the exact decision required.
Summarize facts, options, trade-offs, and the provisional recommendation.
State the confirmed deadline and the impact of no decision.
Separate facts from recommendations.

Expected result: An executive-style email centered on the decision, not the background.

Human check: Verify recipient authority, options, deadline, and stated impact.

09 PRESENTATIONS & DEMOS

Follow-Up After a Presentation

Use this when: You presented an idea, service, or plan and want to consolidate the discussion.

Provide: audience, objective, points discussed, questions, materials, next step

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up after the presentation on [DATE] to [AUDIENCE].

Include:

- brief thank-you
- 2-3 key points discussed
- questions still open
- attached or forthcoming materials
- proposed next step

Do not describe interest or agreement that was not expressed.

Expected result: A message that turns the presentation into a work sequence.

Human check: Confirm key points, questions, materials, and promised availability.

10 PRESENTATIONS & DEMOS

Follow-Up After a Demo

Use this when: You demonstrated a product or process and want to connect the demo to the use case.

Provide: use case, features shown, questions, limits, trial or next meeting

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up after the [PRODUCT / PROCESS] demo for [CLIENT].

Connect the demonstrated features to the confirmed use cases.

Distinguish what is available today from what requires verification.

Summarize open questions and propose [TRIAL / REVIEW / CALL].

Do not promise unapproved features, integrations, or timelines.

Expected result: A concrete recap that preserves credibility and control.

Human check: Verify features, limits, integrations, access, and next steps.

11 PRESENTATIONS & DEMOS

Answer Open Questions

Use this when: After the presentation, you need to provide verified answers to open questions.

Provide: questions, approved answers, sources, items to confirm, contact person

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up answering the questions raised during [PRESENTATION / DEMO].
For each question, state:

- confirmed answer
- source or reference
- any limitation
- item still to confirm

Do not fill gaps with assumptions. Close by naming the contact for additional questions.

Expected result: A traceable response that separates what is known from what remains open.

Human check: Check sources, accuracy, currency, and confidential information.

12 PRESENTATIONS & DEMOS

Request Feedback or the Next Meeting

Use this when: You want to collect useful feedback or schedule a follow-up discussion.

Provide: objective, topics to validate, recipients, date options, next decision

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up for [RECIPIENT] after [PRESENTATION / DEMO].
Request feedback on no more than three specific aspects: [ASPECTS].
Explain how the feedback will be used.
Offer [NUMBER] options for the next meeting or an email response.
Keep the tone collaborative and do not solicit generic praise.

Expected result: A simple, focused feedback request that is easy to complete.

Human check: Verify questions, date options, time zone, and feedback purpose.

13 EVENTS & NETWORKING

After a First Meeting at an Event

Use this when: You met someone and want to reconnect in a credible way.

Provide: name, event, topic discussed, common point, real next step

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a brief follow-up to [NAME] after [EVENT]. Recall the context with one real detail from the conversation. Connect the message to [TOPIC / SHARED INTEREST]. Propose one next step: [CALL / COFFEE / SEND RESOURCE / INTRODUCTION]. Avoid generic phrases, aggressive selling, or unjustified familiarity.

Expected result: A personal but professional message that makes a reply feel natural.

Human check: Verify name, company, conversation detail, and actual proposal.

14 EVENTS & NETWORKING

Send a Promised Resource

Use this when: During an event, you promised a link, document, contact, or example.

Provide: resource, recipient, context, reason, optional next action

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up to [RECIPIENT] sending the [RESOURCE] promised during [EVENT]. Recall the conversation context in one sentence. Explain why the resource may be useful. Include the link or attachment and offer an optional next step. Do not claim unverified benefits.

Expected result: A useful delivery that keeps the promise without turning into a sales pitch.

Human check: Check access, relevance, privacy, copyright, and material availability.

15 EVENTS & NETWORKING

After an Event You Organized

Use this when: You want to thank participants or guests and explain what happens next.

Provide: event, audience, outcome, materials, next action, privacy preferences

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up for participants in [EVENT].
Thank them, summarize the value of the event, and list available materials.
Explain the next step: [ACTION].
If requesting feedback, limit the request to [NUMBER] questions.
Do not share participant names, photos, or data without authorization.

Expected result: An organized, useful post-event message that respects privacy.

Human check: Verify links, materials, consent, recipient list, and requested action.

16 EVENTS & NETWORKING

Reconnect With a Contact Met Months Ago

Use this when: You want to reconnect without pretending continuity or urgency.

Provide: initial context, time elapsed, current reason, value, next step

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a message reconnecting with [NAME], met at [EVENT] in [PERIOD].
Naturally acknowledge the time elapsed.
Explain the concrete reason for reaching out today and the potential value to the recipient.
Offer a light, optional next step.
Do not pretend the relationship is closer than it is.

Expected result: An authentic re-engagement message that does not feel automated.

Human check: Confirm context, current relevance, availability, and relationship tone.

17 CLIENTS & PROJECTS

Follow Up on a Pending Approval

Use this when: A task depends on approval from a client or stakeholder.

~~Provide: decision, materials sent, date, impact, real deadline, options~~
COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up to [APPROVER] about decision [DECISION].
Open with the exact approval required.
Summarize the materials already provided and state the operational impact of waiting.
If options exist, present them fairly.
State the deadline only if confirmed and request a specific response.

Expected result: A decision-centered message that reduces delays.

Human check: Verify authority, impact, options, deadline, and completeness of materials.

18 CLIENTS & PROJECTS

Request Missing Documents or Information

Use this when: The work cannot proceed without data, files, access, or confirmations.

Provide: list, reason, format, secure method, date, effect of non-receipt

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up to [RECIPIENT] requesting the missing information.
Briefly explain why it is needed and how it will be used.
List each item in a checklist.
State the required format, secure method, and requested date.
Do not request unnecessary personal or confidential data.
If an item is unavailable, ask the recipient to confirm its status.

Expected result: A complete request that limits back-and-forth.

Human check: Check necessity, data minimization, authorization, security, and retention.

19 CLIENTS & PROJECTS*Check In on Task Status

Use this when: You need to verify progress, blockers, or a date without sounding accusatory.

Provide: task, owner, agreed date, dependency, available support

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up on the status of [TASK] with [OWNER].
Recall the action and agreed date.
Request one of the following responses:
- completed
- updated date
- blocker requiring support
Explain the dependency or impact in neutral language.
Do not assign blame or motives.

Expected result: A factual check-in that supports recovery and assistance.

Human check: Verify the original commitment, owner, and stated impact.

20 CLIENTS & PROJECTSReconnect With an Inactive Client

Use this when: The relationship is inactive and you want to learn whether the need is still current.

Provide: last contact, objective, relevant changes, options, possible closure

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a follow-up to [CLIENT] after the last contact on [DATE / PERIOD].
Briefly recall the previous topic and ask whether it is still a priority.
Offer three simple responses: continue, postpone, or close for now.
If useful, mention one genuinely relevant update.
Do not create scarcity, pressure, or assumed interest.

Expected result: A message that makes it easy to respond, including with "not now."

Human check: Confirm context, updates, availability, and authority to close.

21 NO RESPONSE & CLOSE-OUT*Gentle Reminder

Use this when: This is the first follow-up and there is no real urgency yet.

Provide: previous message, date, requested action, relationship, attachment if any

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a gentle reminder to [RECIPIENT] about [TOPIC]. Recall the message from [DATE] in one sentence. Repeat only the requested action without copying the entire email. Offer the option to ask questions or suggest a better time. Use a warm, non-accusatory tone. Do not use false urgency.

Expected result: A light first reminder with a clear next step.

Human check: Assess whether enough time has passed and whether the recipient is correct.

22 NO RESPONSE & CLOSE-OUTDirect Follow-Up

Use this when: The first reminder received no response and greater clarity is needed.

Provide: request, time elapsed, real impact, date or checkpoint, support

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a direct follow-up to [RECIPIENT] about [TOPIC]. Recall the previous request and explain the operational impact of no response. Request a specific reply by [DATE / CHECKPOINT] if authorized. Offer an option to report a blocker or redirect the matter to the correct contact. Do not imply negligence or negative intent.

Expected result: A clear reminder that increases precision, not aggression.

Human check: Verify impact, deadline, tone, and authority to request the response.

23 NO RESPONSE & CLOSE-OUT*Time-Sensitive Follow-Up

Use this when: A real deadline or impact requires a timely response.

Provide: decision, deadline, real consequence, options, alternate contact

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a time-sensitive follow-up for [RECIPIENT].
Open with the required decision or action.
State the confirmed deadline and the real consequence of no response.
Offer available options and an alternate contact, if approved.
Use a direct, respectful tone.
Do not exaggerate risk or urgency.

Expected result: An urgent but controlled message based on verifiable facts.

Human check: Confirm deadline, consequence, options, channel, and recipients.

24 NO RESPONSE & CLOSE-OUTProfessional Close-the-Loop Message

Use this when: After several attempts, the matter should be paused or closed.

Provide: topic, previous attempts, date, final status, reopening option

COPY & CUSTOMIZE

Draft a final close-out message to [RECIPIENT].
Summarize the unresolved matter in one sentence.
State that, without a response by [DATE], the matter will be [PAUSED / CLOSED / DEFERRED].
Explain how it can be reopened or continued later.
Use a calm, respectful tone.
Do not sound punitive or passive-aggressive.

Expected result: A clean close-out that documents status and leaves a path forward.

Human check: Confirm that the pause or closure is authorized and described accurately.

Add one of these instructions to any follow-up prompt.

Use only the instruction that improves the specific message.

IMPROVEMENT	INSTRUCTION
Make the opening more contextual	Open by recalling the previous interaction, date, and reason for the message in one sentence.
Make the next step clearer	Rewrite the closing so the recipient knows exactly what to do, by when, and how to confirm.
Remove "just checking in"	Replace vague wording with the context, open point, and requested action.
Create three tone options	Provide warm, neutral, and direct versions without changing the facts or requested action.
Reduce pressure	Remove false urgency, scarcity, blame, or manipulative wording while keeping the message clear.
Add a decision point	State the decision required, available options, and the real impact of a delay.
Separate facts and interpretations	Label confirmed facts, interpretations, estimates, and information still requiring verification.
Check commitments and attachments	List promises, dates, prices, availability, documents, and links; flag anything missing or unauthorized.

The Human Review Gate

AI can draft the follow-up. The sender still owns the facts, authority, recipients, and consequences.

☐	Recipients, names, and email addresses are correct.
☐	The previous interaction, date, and context are reported accurately.
☐	Amounts, deadlines, links, attachments, and promised materials have been verified.
☐	The message contains one main purpose and one clear next step.
☐	Facts, estimates, interpretations, and recommendations are not mixed together.
☐	The urgency is real and proportionate; the message does not create artificial pressure.
☐	No promise, availability, price, remedy, or deadline exceeds the sender's authority.
☐	Sensitive, personal, or confidential information is handled appropriately.
☐	The tone fits the relationship, time elapsed, and impact of no response.
☐	Legal, HR, financial, compliance, or high-risk content has received qualified review when needed.

Final rule: send the follow-up only when you are comfortable owning every sentence in your own name.

A good follow-up improves one response. A better follow-up workflow improves the entire client relationship.

Choose one recurring situation - call, estimate, proposal, presentation, event, or no response - and turn it into a reusable prompt with approved context, tone rules, a clear next step, and human review.
